

Greenhouse Opens New Apart-Hotel

Eco-friendly development offers city stays with a clear conscience

The Greenhouse development in Beeston has opened a new Apart-Hotel, enabling visitors to the city to stay at this award winning eco-friendly building.

Weekend, weekly or monthly stays are offered in one, two and three-bedroom apartments without the guilt attached of a sizeable carbon footprint that so often accompanies city breaks. Created by sustainable developers Citu, the innovative Apart-Hotel exists as part of the Greenhouse development itself, and provides the customer with all the means for sustainable living, from energy-saving appliances to contemporary sustainable furnishings.

Not only that but the hotel's managers - husband and wife team, Tom and Kati Lancaster - are on hand 24/7 to deliver high standards of customer service. "We will work to ensure all our guests are treated to an experience unlike any other in Leeds," Tom said.

On arrival, guests get an insight into the development's impressive eco features. Tours are given of the facilities where guests can get an idea of how recycled and filtered rain water is used to flush the toilets and how solar panels power the showers.

That's not to say the stay is without its little luxuries, as guests are presented with a hamper filled with organic produce, grown within Greenhouse's own allotments, as a further example of how sustainable living is possible even in the commercial world of fancy hotels.

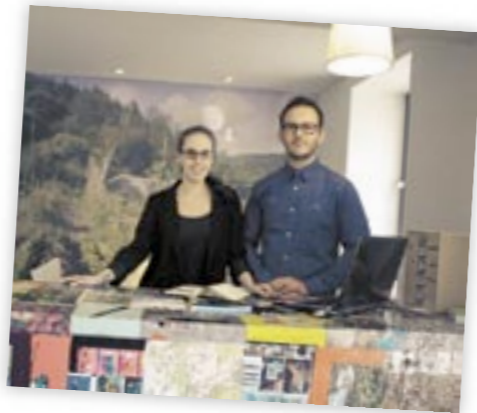

Citu hopes that with the opportunity to experience first-hand the processes that go into maintaining the sustainable ethos of the building, the project will be set apart from other eco-builds and will help to draw international attention to Leeds.

Additional luxuries include free high-speed internet access in all rooms and free 24-hour parking, plus an on-site deli providing fresh and local produce. Taking inspiration from Greenhouse residential living, a bicycle club is also offered to hotel guests as a way of reaching the city centre and beyond while leaving the car at home. But if bicycle riding isn't your cup of tea, Greenhouse is just a 10 or 15-minute walk from the city centre, making it easy to get out and about.

Citu are also keen to point out that locals are not neglected, with the Apart-Hotel committed to increasing the number of those visiting the development who have not yet had the chance to experience it. Fraser Stride, the company's managing director, said: "We are very proud of what Greenhouse stands for and believe that the addition of the Apart-Hotel is another string to Leeds' bow as a city very strong in tourism."
